Overview

At SpinSys, we understand the importance and need to make informed decisions based on dynamic and continuously changing factors which ultimately affect your business or program. We've worked hard to make the tools and technologies available to support your organizational needs and streamline the decision making process.

SpinSys Machine Learning/AI Technology

The SpinSys machine learning/artificial intelligence (AI) platform is based on industry leading machine learning engines seamlessly integrated into the SpinSys suite of enterprise big data collection agents, business rules engines, and analytics and presentation components. Our platform provides machine learning/AI capabilities to access enterprise data, in near real-time, to directly support the data scientists and data engineering personnel. In addition, powerful analytics and presentation capabilities, including mobile and web applications, provide the organization's foundational support needed to make informed executive decisions.

Connecting the Enterprise

Product Features

Secure and Modular

Accelerate your data science and software development with a complete, secure, rigorously tested and supported Machine Learning (ML) Libraries

Scalable, Distributed and High Availability

Designed with redundancy at every tier, tailored to meet your needs.

Deployment: On-premises, Cloud, or Hybrid

Multiple deployment options, giving you the flexibility to deploy our integrated solution based on your business needs.

Build Machine Learning Models Easily

Easily build machine learning models that work on any type of data, of any size.

Deep Learning Capabilities

Machine Learning Engine supports a wide range of models supporting any type of data, across multiple scenarios.

Integrated Platform

Quickly design and deploy AI apps, including mobile and web applications, coupled with advanced analytics and data extract/sharing capabilities.
